

The information architecture defines the structure of the e-commerce website, organizing content into logical sections to help users easily find products, offers, and account options with minimal effort.

KEY TAKEAWAY

This structure ensures users can quickly navigate through categories, discover deals, manage their cart, and access account or support options efficiently.